MANSLAUGHTER COUNT AWAITS SALEM YOUTHS

Coy and Stankovich Plead Not Guilty On Grand Jury Indictments

LA FATCH FIGHTS HOLDUP CHARGE

Akron Man Awaits Hearing; Bond In Case Remains at $7,500

Two Salem youths, indicted on manslaughter charges by the April grand jury, entered pleas of not guilty on arraignment before Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones in Lisbon today.

The youths, Merel D. Coy, 20, and George Stankovich, Jr., 19, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Harry D. Soule of New Canton, Pa., following an automobile accident southeast of Salem, are being held in the county jail on $2,500 bond.

They also pleaded not guilty to joint indictments charging them with unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquors, bond for each on this count being fixed at $500.

Two Are Sentenced

Two other youths, Floyd J. Ammon, 20, of East Liverpool, and Bernard K. Stout, 18, of Wellsville, entering pleas of guilty to highway robbery indictments, were sentenced to serve from 10 to 25 years in the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield.

James LaFatch, 22, of Akron, indicted for highway robbery in the holdup of the Peoples Drug company store, Salem, pleaded not guilty and is being held on bond of $7,500.

Merrill D. Hunter, 21, of Akron, charged with carrying concealed weapons, also entered a not guilty plea. His bond is $2,500.

Dorothy Hinton, Salem, entered a plea of guilty to a charge of soliciting. No sentence was passed by the court.

Other arraignments follow: George H. Sharpe, Salem, committing illegal operations, not guilty, bond $2,000; defended by Atty. John E. Baucknecht.

Emmett Osgood, East Liverpool, malicious destruction of property; guilty, sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

H. D. Parson, St. Clair township, issuing fraudulent checks; arraignment scheduled at 9 a. m. Friday; defended by P. V. Mackall.

Robert Bennington, Steubenville; Lewis Bell, Toronto, and Clarence Bellville, Calcutta; burglary and larceny; each pleaded not guilty, bond being set at $1,000.

Frank Powell, East Palestine, malicious destruction of property; guilty; awaiting sentence on each indictment; total bond of $5,000 for each.

Deny Robbery Charges
Telma Gutierrez, Paul Chirumbolo and Tony Cugino, all of Canton; highway robbery, two indictments each; pleas of not guilty.

Woodrow W. Brown, Wellsville, incest and assault, will be arraigned at 9 a. m. Friday.

Elmer Knowles, Wellsville, non-support; will be arraigned at 9 a. m. Friday.

Carl Fathery, Lisbon, two indictments, assault and battery, not guilty, bond $100.

Roy Fathery, Lisbon, assault and battery, not guilty, bond $100.

Delmar Cugin and Edmund Pencik, Cleveland, stealing motor vehicle; not guilty, bond of $1,000 each.

TRADE GAINS IN MANY SECTIONS SPUR HOPE FOR NEW PROSPERITY

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
(Copyright, 1933, by The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, April 27.—Commerce and industry in past month have experienced one of the most striking revivals of recent years. Sharp percentage gains reflect, of course, the rebound from the extremely low levels of the March banking crisis. Nevertheless, some lines are approaching, or have actually crossed, the levels of this period last year. Much of the improvement has been against normal seasonal trends.

Order Books Fatten
The false upturns experienced previously in the depression have taught business executives to examine such bulges as the current one critically. Reports from many parts of the country, however, indicate a pronounced re-birth of confidence, together with fattening order books.

Automobile production for April, according to present indications, may show a gain over April last year. After falling to some 90,000 cars and trucks in March, the swift quickening in output this month, according to trade authorities, should carry it above the 143,300 produced in April 1932.

Steel production has risen to the best levels in more than a year. Operations are estimated by "Iron Age" for this week at 25 per cent of capacity. The average for April last year was just under that, and for the full month of last March, less than 16 per cent. Steel production usually reaches its season peak in March.

Freight car loadings have gained steadily in April, contrary to the seasonal trend which usually carries them to a peak in March. The average thus far this month has been 490,000 cars, against 460,000 in March and 489,000 in February.

Latest mercantile reviews report a sustained volume of retail trade.

Commodity Prices Up
The moderate rise in commodity prices, coincident to inflationary psychology, has evidently stimulated buying. With domestic copper prices rising from 5 3-8 cents a pound to 6 1-2, one of the largest

Perking Up

From Wall Street, where stocks have perked up, to the Pacific Northwest, where the lumberman's axe is swinging more busily, better business and re-employment are reported in many sections of the nation. Chicago reports an encouraging showing in electrical consumption; Detroit in shopping; North Carolina in textile production; Miami in real estate deals; Buffalo in flour milling; Seattle in shipping, and so down the line.

In the accompanying article the Associated Press presents some conservative highlights of the situation.

PLAN DIPLOMAS FOR 15 SENIORS AT GREENFORD

Ohio Education Department Aid Will Address Graduates May 9

COLUMBIANA HIGH WILL GRADUATE 32

16 Await Sheepskins At Fairfield High School This Year

GREENFORD, April 27.—Diplomas will be presented to 15 seniors at commencement exercises of Greenford High school at the school auditorium at 8 p. m. Tuesday May 9th.

Joseph W. Fichter of Columbus, assistant director of the Ohio department of education, will deliver the commencement address. He will discuss the subject, "The Outlook for Our Graduates."

List of Graduates
Diplomas will be presented by O. S. Walter, president of the township board of education. The graduates are:

Emmet E. Brudery, Wendell J. Cress, Warren W. Calvin, James R. Calvin, Arden E. Cook, Esther Mae Dunn, Nora Evelyn Dunn, Gertrude Emily Vevers, Herbert Judson Gee, Robert Justig, John Dale Knauf, Charles Arthur Kuhns, Esther Lucille Mason, Jean Schurtenberger and Woodrow Turney.

Seniors will present their annual class play, a three-act comedy, "A Dollar Down," at the school auditorium Friday night. Miss Ruth Roe and C. C. White are directing the production.

Members of the cast are Herbert Gee, James Calvin, Jean Schurtenberger, Esther Mason, Robert Justice, Gertrude Vevers, Arthur Kuhns, Emmet Brudery, Esther Dunn and Nora Dunn. Music will be provided by the High school orchestra.

Baccalaureate May 7

Baccalaureate services will be held for prospective graduates at the Locust Grove Baptist church at 8 p. m. Sunday, May 7, when the pastor, Rev. E. L. Greer, will discuss the subject, "The Larger Life."

Here is the program for the commencement exercises on May 9: Invocation, Rev. G. A. Royer, Lutheran church pastor; oration, "The Present Age," Nora Dunn; violin

U. S., Canada In Neighborly Greeting

A neighborly greeting was extended Prime Minister R. W. Bennett (left), of Canada, by Secretary of State Cordell Hull as the Canadian Premier arrived in Washington for his conference with President Roosevelt. Secretary Hull headed the delegation that welcomed the visiting statesman at Union Station.

Goshen High Senior, Only 16, Completes Course in 3 Years

Miss Doris Maxine Miller is Prize Winner Also; Three Other Graduates Only 16

Miss Doris Maxine Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Miller, Goshen, member of the senior class of Goshen High School, Goshen, has the distinction of being the first student of this school to finish the four-year course in three years.

Wins Prizes, Too
She has 16 credits, three-fourths more than the required number. During her high school course Miss Miller won a cash prize in an academic contest held at Youngstown. A talented speaker, Miss Miller has won four medals in declamatory contests, and tied for first place in one, during her high school career. These contests, however, were outside of school activities.

Members of the class graduating from Goshen this year are unusually young. Miss Miller is one of the four seniors who are only 16 years old. The others are Martha Thompson, Lillian Williams and Rose Nell Bricker.

Honor graduates are Margaret Armstrong, Mary Bogar, Laura Benning, Bernice Rinehart, Martha Thompson and Evelyn Cosand.

Commencement Friday
Others on the class roll are, Godfrey Beckert, Velma Briggs, Wanda Campbell, Robert Cline, Lois Coy, Genevieve Garrett, A. d. a.

Inflation Test Looming In Vote On Gold Content

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 27.—The greatest test of the Roosevelt inflation program, a vote on the clause for lowering the dollar's content, loomed immediately ahead today as the senate drove for final disposal of the whole plan before adjournment.

The campaign by Senator Reed (R. Pa.) against the measure was resumed with his motion to strike out authority for the president to reduce the dollar's gold value by as much as 50 per cent.

The administration leaders were confident of victory on this point, however, and worked to vote down also within the day the Robinson (R. Ind.) amendment to pay the soldiers bonus out of the new currency to be issued under the bill.

The bonus issue, meanwhile, continued to develop towards a new showdown in the house.

Though Rep. Patman, (D. Tex.) chief leader of the bonus advocates agreed to postpone his demand for a Democratic caucus on the issue pending senate outcome of the Robinson motion, Lundeen (F. L. Minn.) today presented a petition to force a house vote on the question. If 145 members sign, the issue will have to be faced.

Hits Reduction

WASHINGTON, April 27.—A proposed appropriation reduction to the war department supply bill would cripple the national guard almost to the point of uselessness, militia officers of the war department were told by A. J. Gen. Frank D. Henderson of Ohio.

Many of the 10,000 men and officers in the Ohio guard depend on their pay drills to balance household budgets, he said. Under the bill national guard appropriations for 1933-34 would be cut $35,000,000 or about 40 per cent.

Compels Schools To Take Students

LISBON, April 27.—City and village boards of education are compelled to receive students in their high schools and extend to such students from rural districts all advantages of such high schools whether tuition is paid or not, according to an opinion of the attorney general received here, and which has been transmitted to city and village boards of education.

Throughout the country many township boards of education are delinquent in payment of tuition charges to the city boards of education, but even so, such boards of education are compelled under the ruling to receive students.

Trustees, Clerks To Meet In Lisbon

LISBON, April 27.—The quarterly meeting of the Columbiana County Association of Township Trustees and Clerks will be held in No. 1 court room here the evening of May 3.

The group will be addressed by Prosecuting Attorney George L. Laferty, his assistant, Frank C. Springer, County Commissioner's Clerk Lemuel H. Johnson and E. M. Lowry, of Salem, secretary of the county relief commission.

Officers of the association are: President, A. I. Getz, Perry township; first vice president, Charles Ward, Unity township; second vice president, John LeVan, Fairfield township; secretary, Mrs. Helen O'Brien.

Burglars Attack, Beat Canton Youth

CANTON, April 27.—Max Uebelhart, 18, son of Max Uebelhart, Canton merchant, was in a hospital here today with a fractured skull and concussion following an attack by two burglars in his room last night.

Although dazed by the blow, the youth went to a closet in his room, obtained a shotgun and fired at the two thugs as they ran from the house. He collapsed after calling police and was removed to a hospital.

He was alone at the time of the attack.

HIGH STANDARDS

Due to the careful planning of the board of education, a program of economy which became effective early in the game, the general business acumen of Superintendent Earl S. Kerr who is responsible for the successful operation of the public school system, and the whole-hearted cooperation of the teaching corps, students will receive a well rounded school term of eight and one-half months this year.

Despite a year of hardships and constant struggles against curtailed income, students of the public schools will lose only a half-month of school work and this will be largely overcome by a speeding up, somewhat, of class schedules.

However, in spite of effective planning and operating, a month would have been cut off the school calendar had it not been for the generosity of the teachers themselves who are going to contribute two full weeks of work in order to advance their pupils as much as possible. The teachers will receive no pay from June 2 until June 16, when the school term ends. They are making this sacrifice in addition to salary reductions they have already received.

Salem schools occupy a high plane in state educational circles. It is consistent with the high standard set by the executive and teaching personnel.

A LONG RANGE POLICY

Whether or not Ohio sells its idea of using money available for relief to finance a long range reconstruction program, it has distinguished itself by presenting to the federal government a plan for that purpose. By so doing it has demonstrated possession of a sounder conception of government's responsibility in administration of public money than has been common during the years in which great expenditures have been made without benefit of any carefully considered policy.

This state's recommendation is that such money as is available be spent for the double purpose of providing immediate relief to unemployed citizens by making it represent a capital investment in reconstruction. It is, in effect, a specific application of President Roosevelt's reforestation policy—an investment in the present to meet both present and future needs. It is proposed to combine federal, state and local resources to do a bigger job than is possible with a division of resources.

The program is the essence of planned economy. Its detail calls for reallocation of population and development of industrial communities, among other things. Districts in which financial structures have collapsed because of exhaustion of natural resources would be assisted, presumably, to liquidate their obligations in an orderly manner. Marginal land would be taken out of production and permitted to lie idle or be turned back to forest. Service costs of government would be adjusted to ability to pay.

A few years ago when few people questioned the efficacy of relief administered as a palliative a program of long range relief financed with public money and holding an objective of economic reconstruction would have been regarded as radical. Today, significantly, it seems to be a logical solution. If all the public money which has been spent on direct relief with no thought of permanent benefit had been spent for reconstruction there would be something to show for it, aside from gigantic deficits for future generations to pay. Ohio's program deserves careful attention, both for what it would do in this state and what it would do nationally if it were to be instituted as public policy.

A SUCCESSFUL PROLOGUE

It has been easy to forget, while stories about momentous subjects poured out of Washington, that the things being done there are only the prologue to a world economic conference. There is a possibility that the prologue may prove more successful than the play itself. Beyond any doubt, whatever success the play has will be derived from the enthusiastic momentum which started in President Roosevelt's private conferences.

The President is said to believe that round-table conferences, despite their friendly sound, are a poor way to carry on international diplomacy. It is his observation, as it is the observation of many people, that diplomatic double-dealing never flourishes better than in an environment of mock friendliness. Out of such considerations as these, President Roosevelt has formed a conclusion that two-way conversations represent a better method.

It is his good fortune to have a personality so unusually attractive that even his unrelenting critics have remarked it. Slight wonder that he seems to be making an unusually good impression on Premier MacDonald and M. Herriot. Those gentlemen, each one a master of the fine art of radiating personality, react to President Roosevelt with the favor that comes from ability to appreciate rare talent.

Other diplomats will follow the two who have been received so heartily. Every nation on earth will have an opportunity to send a representative to talk with the President of this pivotal government about the possibilities of restoring the world to a condition of comparative stability. No question will be left out of discussion; no effort will be spared to make real progress toward a cooperative effort in the name of international recovery. It is a means to an end.

It is done for the sake of a world conference, the date of which will be announced shortly. Almost single-handed, the Roosevelt administration has changed the outlook for that conference from complete hopelessness to modified optimism. The success of the first of the preliminary meetings looks like a good omen for a successful foreign policy under this administration.

New York
Day
by
Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, April 27.—It has been interesting to re-discover Brooklyn this spring. It blooms with its flowers and stresses that so much of Manhattan's squirrel-in-the-cage living is irrelevant. Many transplanted New Yorkers declare they never began to enjoy living until they crossed the bridge.

A large number, hypnotized by the metropolitan haphazard, look upon Brooklyn in the manner of an unwanted step-child. It is seen best in the twilight that trembles in a pale gold shimmer. The brittle of church spires adds to the profound humility.

Quiet residential streets are blanched in a sort of frozen purity and there is an incurable passion for domesticity. People on porches exchange greetings with passers-by. Nowhere is the sudden fury to get somewhere. Thackeray was likely thinking of another Brooklyn when he wrote of "settled sobriety."

One of the largest cities, it's still country. And aristocratic Brooklyn Heights has no suggestion of nouveau riche invasion so loudly tom-tommed on Fifth and Park avenues. There is rather the marked contagion of immaculate piety, delicate taste and dependability.

Exactly 30 hack licenses are granted to horsebacs in New York. A few hansoms and victorias, ranked in the Plaza, once belonged to the first families. John Wendell's sober black two-wheeler is in service in Bermuda, but the faded Victoria of the Alexandre family stands by the Pulitzer memorial. Edward Kleber is dean of the Plaza. He clings to his greatcoat with silver buttons and glazed cocked hat. When he draws up to the curb every morning at 11 to call "Kerridge, sir. Very exclusive!" there is always a fresh rose over his horse's ear. Edward is going downhill with a flourish.

Cling of customs is warning. I like the tale Reggie Birch, artist creator of "Little Lord Fauntleroy," tells of boyhood with his grandfather, retired British admiral, with Nelson at Trafalgar. Every evening at dinner in the London mansion several maiden aunts left the dining room when the cloth was lifted and Reggie, aged six, and his gaffer grandfather would be left alone. The butler would bring a glass of port for the old gentleman and a tiny liqueur for the young master who, standing on a stool, would solemnly pipe, "The Queen, Sir, God Bless her" when the ancient admiral proposed her Majesty's health.

An indefatigable prowler of the town is Bert Lyell, the actor. In off hours he roams docks and wharfs, raffish byways off the Bowery and the catacombs of Chinatown. Lyell is a born New Yorker who knows every inch of the city from Spuyten Duyvil to the Battery. All of which is a rarity for a native.

One of the world's three cleverest secret service men is the alert Lawrence Richey, long in confidential secretarial jobs to Presidents. At 18 he was given a governmental medal for turning up a gang of counterfeiters. He is the sort, when given orders, is merely told: "Go get your man!" And he has an unbroken record.

Thingumbobbs: President Abbott Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard, wears tan boots with his morning clothes. Montague Glass and John Erskine often team up for piano duets at parties. So do Kent Cooper and John Golden. Winnie Sheehan's upswing income will be $500,000 a year in 1934. Anna May Wong is to tour South America in a series of personal appearances. Among notable cheese connoisseurs are W. R. Hearst, ex-King Alfonso, C. B. Cochran and Gene Tunney. The heaviest attended subscription dinner in New York was to snap in March 15 years ago. Charmion Von Wiegand Karl's traveled daughter, graciously offered her apartment to her ex-husband's bride on her first visit to Moscow. John Ringling's brand of cigars is 5 years old. Floyd Gibbons is a collector of blankets from all parts of the globe.

Note tucked under door by a neighbor: "Don't worry. That was not murder this morning. I stepped on a cake of soap in the bath and coming down cracked my crazy bone on the wall soap dish."

I'm relieved. I thought it was some one beating a hound dog to death.

What Others Say

"WHEN I SAW THOSE FACES"
The Indianapolis Star prints a special dispatch for Muncie telling the story of a mother who set the stage for suicide and then started to enact the self-chosen role that called for her to take her own life.

She told her 5-year-old son to stay at the only window in their dingy room and watch over his infant sister, who had been placed in a high chair, and "watch me go outdoors."

Then she left the house, walked 200 feet and waded into the swollen waters of the White river. She had been dependent on charity after her husband deserted her three months before, the dispatch relates, and was a victim of despondency.

After she waded into water waist deep she turned to wave a last farewell to her children.

But she did not commit suicide. What made her change her mind?

"When I saw those little faces at the window I could not go any farther," she told police summoned by a neighbor to whose home she went for dry clothing. The little boy, she said, was clapping his hands, apparently highly amused at his mother's "stunting" for him.

Bravely instilled by the tug of responsibility that cannot be ignored, courage born anew by the ties of innocent trust and childlike faith—these have saved more than one person from the depths of despair.—Toledo Times.

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland
New York City

Simple Rules of Hygiene

Children suffer from many ailments. Most of these are preventable. Merely to say this should put every parent on the alert to guard against unnecessary dangers.

The contagious diseases of childhood are readily transmitted from one child to another. Some of these can be avoided by proper care and in consequence much unnecessary suffering prevented.

Simple hygienic rules taught during childhood have much to do with future health of the individual. It is believed by most students of the subject that the ideal place for such instruction is in the school.

The Spread of Disease

I believe this an excellent plan, but certainly such teaching should not end there. It should be practiced, emphasized and repeated at home. Home teaching is sometimes more convincing than the instruction received at school. Unfortunately many of us are careless about such matters. In any event, the instruction at school is vitally essential.

Children should be taught at an early age the use of the handkerchief. They should be instructed how to protect the nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing. They should be given the reasons why their not doing it may spread disease.

Wash Hands Frequently

Every child should be warned against the common habit of placing fingers and pencils in the mouth.

Every child should be carefully instructed in the necessity of washing the hands with soap and water. This habit should be acquired as soon as possible. Everybody, young and old, should remember the necessity of having clean hands before eating.

Brushing the teeth upon arising and retiring, should be made a part of the daily routine of every child. This responsibility should begin at as early an age as possible.

To insure health among our young it is advisable that they be examined periodically. Strict attention must be given to posture. Ear, eye, nose, throat, dental and other possible defects, should be discovered as soon as possible. When these are corrected in early life, much undue and unnecessary suffering is escaped in later life.

These are mere hints. But I do want you to know that the welfare of the child and the state of adult health are founded on the health practices of youth.

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE

by WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, young and capable assistant of the inefficient old Dr. Montague Threadgold, is shocked at the pollution he finds everywhere in the little town of Navestock. The young doctor's greatest obstacle in trying to better conditions is the bitter resentment of the people themselves. The affable Threadgold appears more interested in humoring his patients and fattening his purse than he is in curing their ills. He cautions Wolfe against using necessary "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do. Wolfe would be tempted to give up if it were not for lovely, young Jess Mascall, whose sincerity and courageous outlook are an incentive to keep fighting. Filled with the curiosity as to how Wolfe spends his time, Mrs. Threadgold searches his room and finds a map he has prepared showing Navestock's polluted areas. She informs her husband of what she calls Wolfe's "gross disloyalty and underhand spying" and suggests that her husband either make him discontinue his researches or discharge him. Jasper Turrell, the brewer, whose enmity Wolfe has incurred for complaining of the condition of the former's property, calls on the Rev. Robert Flemming. The genial rector is indifferent to Turrell's ranting about Wolfe. The clergyman cares little for Turrell, accepting him as part of Navestock. Flemming had long ago learned to take evil as a part of life. Fleming wonders what type of man Wolfe is. He has the opportunity to meet him at the bedside of a dying woman.

"Now dishwashing is no job at all"
—she tells husband

"SEE! It's really easy with Rinso. These lively suds wash off the grease in a jiffy. I can do all our dinner dishes—pots and pans and everything—in 15 minutes. It used to take me at least twice as long before I changed to Rinso."

You've used Rinso for washing clothes. You know how it makes out dirt—saves scrubbing—gets clothes 4 or 5 shades whiter—safely. Now try it for washing dishes! See how it makes even greasy pots and pans come shining bright in a jiffy. Rinso will save you time and work three times a day. It will save your hands. You'll be so thrilled, you'll use it for all other cleaning!

Cup for cup, Rinso gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps—even in hardest water. Get the BIG household package today.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

Robert Flemming had a glimpse of the young doctor's face, and a queer shock of awe went through him. He remained on his knees, silent, motionless, his hands resting on the edge of the bed. He saw Wolfe go to an old sofa at one end of the room and sit down there with the boy in his arms.

"There, there, sonny," the child broke into wild wailing, such an outcry as can never be forgotten by one who has once heard it. Wolfe rocked him to an fro, his long arms holding the boy close to his own body. The man's attitude was almost as pathetic as the agony of the child.

Robert Flemming's head bowed itself. He was unable to pray, but listened to Wolfe talking like a woman to the boy in his arms.

"There, there, old chap, mother's gone to sleep. She was tired, sonny, so tired. She'd got pain, bad pain, but the bad pain's gone now. That's right, cry it out. Hold on to me—hold on tight."

A woman's head appeared in the doorway. Robert Flemming rose clumsily and stood staring at Wolfe and the boy. He brushed a hand over his eyes, and then glanced at the figure on the bed.

The neighbor came in, a big, square, frowsy woman with a red face. She was crying. And she looked at Wolfe and the child.

"Can you take him, Mrs. Budge?" His voice was soft, and solemnly tender.

"Dear Lord, sir! Poor thing! Come love dear, you come along with me."

She held out her fat, red forearms.

"Now, sonny."

The boy clung to him a little, but the woman took the child, and smothered him against her bosom, one great hand spread out and patting the boy's back.

"I'll take 'im next door, sir."

"Yes, it's better."

And all the while Robert Flemming stood in the dark little room like a stranger who had no share in the things that were passing.

Wolfe and the rector left Bung Row together. They were going in the same direction, and for some reasons Robert Flemming wished that they were not. He walked with his head slightly bowed and his eyes fixed on an imaginary spot on the pavement about five yards in front of him. The man's usual attitude was one of serene and erect solidity. He marched through Navestock, looking people in the face with genial confidence, without self-consciousness, fresh-colored, smiling, and courtly. But those few minutes in Bung Row had brought him into a state of vague embarrassment. He had been overshadowed there, in no uncertain way, by the more powerful personality of this younger man. His own uselessness had troubled him. Moreover, some voice within him had echoed the wild cry of the motherless child.

"A sad case."

He raised his head, and his eyes came round half-timidly to scan the face of the man at his side. Wolfe seemed to be thinking. His profile was grave, and a little grim.

"Very."

"One of the inevitable, I suppose?"

"Inevitable?"

Wolfe's eyes caught Flemming's as one foil presses upon and feels another.

"Yes, perhaps here."

"You mean?"

"Such things are inevitable in certain places."

Robert Flemming's eyes fell. He was a bigger man than Wolfe, both in actual bulk and in reputation, but he felt smaller and slighter than the man at his side.

He hesitated, and then forced himself to follow the subject further.

"You mean to say that local conditions may be held accountable?"

"I do."

"How — in Navestock? I have lived in the town for 20 years."

"I know. That complicates one's view of things."

"Oh!"

Flemming felt a slight flushing of his face. Turrell's words recurred to him, but somehow things fell away from the figure of the man who had held that wailing child in his arms.

"That's fairly frank of you."

"I meant to imply that all of us are apt to take familiar things for granted."

"Like the stains on our old clothes. Quite true. But do you mean to say that you believe—"

"I believe what I have been taught to be the truth. These things have been proved. The best of our younger men—well, every generation has its ideas."

Flemming was silent a moment. Then he said:

"We need young blood. I know it."

He had come to a point where their paths diverged. This parting of the ways may have had some symbolism for both of them. Robert Flemming held out a hand.

"I'm sorry that we haven't met before. I hope we shall remedy that."

Wolfe's hand went out frankly.

"I hope so."

And they parted with a keen meeting of the eyes.

Robert Flemming walked on slowly, his hands behind his back. Now and then he glanced up to acknowledge the salutations of those who passed him. Yet his mood was one of detachment. He was lifted up out of Navestock, and out of his own familiar, easy-going self.

A girl lying under the shade of a furze bush with a romance under her chin may be a more interesting study than a professor prone at the edge of a pond, groping for slime among chickweed and rushes.

Jess Mascall had a retreat of her own on Tarling Moor where she would hide herself like a wild moor-maiden, with brown legs and eyes as black as aloe. It was a little hollow where stone and gravel had once been quarried, changed now into a green and flowery pit, and hidden away amid masses of billowing furze. The white clouds and the wind slid over it, and the sky gave it a blue lid. There were sunny banks where one could bask in the sun, or lie in the shade of a furze bush and read. In spring, summer and autumn this diminutive dell looked as though some rich piece of tapestry had tumbled into it out of heaven. Anemones, primroses, violets, blue-bells, pink centaury, foxgloves, stitchwort, ragged robin, golden rod, mauve scabious all these flourished in their turn. Jess had brought Lent lilies from the orchard and planted them in the banks. In the center was a black circle and the ashes of a fire, for Jess had her gipsy moods and would brew her tea in a pot slung upon a tripod of sticks.

Jess lay in a patch of shade with masses of yellow flowers spread like golden rays about her. Ivanhoe had just overthrown Bois Guilbert and rescued Rebecca from death by fire.

Jess put the book aside—she had read it twice in the last two months—and lay on her back with a feeling of delightful languor. Romance could be so splendidly satisfying on a summer day when the white clouds were drifting, and the furze pods cracked in the sun. Moreover, Miss Jess had her head and body packed with romance. She was at the age when heroism is a necessity, and adventure part of the sap of life. Her own vitality was romance itself. She dreamed through all these strenuous happenings, and commented on them with naive sincerity.

"I think Rowena was rather a fool. I'm not sure I don't like Rebecca better. But then, you see—"

Her thoughts fled off on a side issue, and she lay and stared at the fern fronds that fringed the edge of the bank.

"I wonder if there are any men now like Ivanhoe? I am sure there must be. Only he was fair, and I don't think I like fair men. I like them tall and dark and shrewy, though I suppose I oughtn't to, because I'm dark myself. Fair men often look such sops. There's young Turrell, too, only he's sandy. I should like to see someone give him a thrashing. I should like to have seen Ivanhoe smash him into the dust. John Wolfe would look fine in armor. He's so strong, and he'd never be afraid. I believe he would do all sorts of wonderful things. But then Navestock's a dull place. Fancy a man finding a dragon to fight down there! Old Flimley might do. But I have beaten her myself."

She drifted away into more picturesque and ingenious dreams, thoughts that were too quaintly sacred to be thought out loud. They were iridescent cobwebs spun by fairies before the eyes of a young girl. Jess lay and traced in imagination their glistening and trembling patterns. She forgot that she existed in the glamour of her dreams.

"Jess, Jess!"

Someone was calling her. She sat up, shaking her black hair with the slightest flash of irritation.

"Jess, are you there?"

The voice was a thin and useful voice, suggesting something with an edge to it. Jess knew the sound. She stood up and waited.

"It's Edith Wilks! What does she want to come here for? I don't want her."

BARSTOW, Cal.—Just west of Isleta, "little island," on the west bank of the Rio Grande, in New Mexico, the engineer of this fast train, The Chief, stopped suddenly. A brakeman said:

"I guess he hit something."

Two of the train crew walked back and far down the straight track, lighted a brilliant red flare, warning any oncoming train. Twenty minutes later they came trotting back, their red lanterns swinging, flare still blazing. One of them said:

"Just a big horse. I guess the engineer knew what he hit. He knocked it onto the other track; we pulled it off. It's all right."

Then he added:

"You have to be sure they're dead. Sometimes after you go they will crawl back onto the track. Funny, isn't it?"

JUST there the railroad passes through a reservation occupied by 1,100 Indians. "Very industrious horticulturists and agriculturists," the Santa Fe book calls them, and tracks are not fenced in, for there are few cattle. Occasionally "a big horse" get on the track. The railroad will pay for the one killed, and the grief-stricken Indian will be able to buy two more.

LEAVING Arizona, the train "coasts" down hill 30 miles and stops at Needles, Cal., where Indian ladies, substantially built, offer bows and arrows of painted wood, necklaces and purses of beads. Their salesmanship talk is limited to "buy one." Like the fates, they approach you in threes, and you must buy three or face two disappointed.

Those ladies, with blue streaks painted downward from the lower lip to the chin, are normal in every way, broad and heavy as they should be. Asked how many children she has, one replies:

"Oh, about a dozen."

They wear dresses touching the ground, long brightly-colored shawls.

THE United States people will learn little by little what all the muttering and mumbling in Washington is about. Faces of foreign gentlemen, as they leave, will tell us something.

David Lawrence suggests a plan to concentrate all gold, Uncle Sam's included, in an international bank in Switzerland. Then "the legal ratio (back of paper money issued) could be reduced 20 per cent."

Uncle Sam could then imagine himself on the gold basis, presumably, although he wouldn't have any gold. And Mr. Stalin of Russia, when he got around to it, with his airplane fleet sufficiently developed might set out through the air, headed for Switzerland, with an object worth while.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. See at all stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

New and Novel Cheese Dishes

We recently gave some cheese recipes that must have been a huge success. For ever so many readers wrote and asked us to find for them some new and novel dishes in which cheese was the main ingredient. So we have gathered some new and very delicious cheese dishes, dishes that should be splendid for luncheon or supper. The first recipe is an old one, carefully preserved by a family whose ancestor brought it with her from Holland. It is a most toothsome cheese pudding.

Beat one egg and add to half an ounce of butter that has just been melted, a quarter pint of milk or cream, a half pound of grated cheese, one teaspoon of made mustard, and a liberal seasoning of salt and cayenne pepper. Mix these ingredients here. Turn into a buttered dish and bake gently from twenty to twenty-five minutes. This is a dish that your youngster can easily prepare, but it tastes as though a chef had made it. There should be four portions from these amounts.

A Cheese Omelet

Here's a tasty cheese omelet that is a good dish for any time of day. I like it for luncheon. Whisk well three eggs, then add one tablespoon of grated Parmesan cheese, one tablespoon of cream or milk, and a dash of salt and pepper. Have one ounce of butter heated and well skimmed in an omelet pan, pour in the egg mixture and stir over the flame until the eggs begin to set. Now fold one-half over the other, making it crescent shaped or fold the sides towards the middle, rather in the form of a cushion. Allow the omelet to brown slightly then turn it onto a hot dish, serving immediately. This makes two generous portions.

I have my own method of toasted cheese made with a table chafing dish and a prime supper favorite. Cut cheese into thin slices good American cheese is really best for this dish. Spread on a little mustard, season with pepper and cook in butter. Pour over the cheese half a cup of milk and cook gently until cheese is melted. Serve with crisp dry toast.

The numbers on this program will be announced later. On Wednesday evening the Music Study club will present the cantata, "Light" by Richard Kowitz, with a chorus of 25 ladies under the direction of Mrs. Frank B. Hon of Youngstown. Mrs. Elmer Coyle will be at the organ and Miss Martha Zimmerman at the piano.

There will be other special numbers on the program which will be announced later.

Submits School Report

The report of School Supt. C. E. Bender for the month ending April 21 shows only one case of tardiness during the month, and that was in the High school. This is a new low record for the local schools, at least as far back as records have been kept. The attendance in both high school and grades averaged 96 per cent for the month. Miss Belva Switzer's room average was 98.36 per cent and Miss Nellie Koch's first grade room was low with 90 per cent.

Mrs. Kenneth Gormley was hostess Tuesday evening to associate members of the Bridge Club with two tables in play. The prize for high score was awarded to Mrs. Bert Dickinson. Mrs. Marion Poulton was a guest. Lunch was served at the conclusion of the game. Mrs. Clifford Laughlin, will be the next hostess in three weeks.

Among those from out-of-town attending the funeral service of Jesse Howell Tuesday afternoon were: Mr. and Mrs. Gibson, Cleveland; Ross Howell, Mansfield; Mrs. Mary Jane Tullis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tullis, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tullis and Mrs. Mable Stubbin, Alliance; and Mrs. Clem Willaman, Salem.

Class To Meet

The Mary-Martha class of the Lutheran Sunday school will meet

Friday at 2:00 p. m. in the church social room. The session will be in charge of the president, Mrs. Josiah Royer and a poke lunch will be a feature.

hundred men will be employed until November to fill the contract.

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—A textile mill at Greenville, S. C., has received orders which resulted in an increase in operations from 30 hours a week to 110, with day and night shifts working.

RICHMOND, Va.—Five plants of the Maryland Overall company in Virginia have changed from one ten-hour shift to two six-hour shifts and added 200 operatives. Richmond wholesale houses report that orders have increased since the bank holiday.

SAN FRANCISCO—The Federal Reserve bank for this district says business has recovered rapidly to the February level.

The wholesale trade expansion is described as more than seasonal.

MINNEAPOLIS—The Civic Commerce association announces that during the last six weeks a 10 to 20 per cent gross sales increase has been noted in wholesale hardware, general merchandise, farm tools, dry goods, and women's apparel.

MIAMI, Fla.—More building permits have been issued at Miami Beach this month than in any month since last September.

CLEVELAND — Increased buying orders have caused a pickup in steel mill operations. In Cleveland, production was estimated at 41 per cent, the highest since 1931, with prospects of a higher rise quickly. Operations in the Youngstown district have increased to 23 per cent the first time in three years that the rate is higher than for the same date of the preceding year. Last year in the corresponding week, production was at 22 per cent.

THE DAY IN SPORTS

WHITE SOX IMPROVE
ASK CLEVELAND CLUB

THE CHICAGO White Sox are a much better ball club than last year. That is the unanimous opinion of the Cleveland Indians after the recent three game series between the two clubs, in which Chicago had a decisive margin.

If the loss of Simmons, Haas and Dykes, weakens the Athletics as much as their presence in the Sox lineup, has strengthened Chicago, then Connie Mack isn't going to win any pennants this year. That is the way Manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Indians sizes up the situation.

"The Sox are 50 per cent better than last year," says Wesley Ferrell, ace hurler of the Indians pitching staff. The new players, Simmons in particular, have added a punch, while Dykes has helped tighten up the infield. Defensively, the addition of Simmons, Haas and Peckinpaugh to the outfield, has made the Sox outer garden one of the best in the league."

CHICAGO has aspirations of finishing in the first division. Manager Lou Ponsessa says he is shooting at fourth place, thinks that is where the club will finish but adds that if the pitching holds up, it may go higher.

Fans in this section will get the first chance to see the rejuvenated White Sox in action at the Cleveland Stadium this week, Chicago making its first appearance there Friday, through Monday, May 1st. Since the Cleveland Indians figure they are good enough to finish fourth or better, it behooves them to knock off the White Sox and thus early kill their first division aspirations.

The Chicago Club of this year is a veteran team. Having no success with the young talent, Owner Charles F. Keeler of the White Sox has gone in for the ready made big leaguers, in an effort to win back the prestige the club once held in Chicago. There was never a better time, because the Cubs, after the four straight trimmings by the Yanks, are none too popular with fandom.

BASEBALL'S here and it's inevitable that the pool in which for the cost of ten cents you seek to obtain prizes varying from $3 to $50 arrives here also. The baseball pool is as perennial as the game itself, illegal though it may be, and you'll always find, wherever you go, some sucker holding on to a handful of them, perusing the scoreboard to see if he has high or low for the day or week.

Our good friend Hugh "Irish" McMillan has listed the number of combinations that are possible in the formation of these pools. From this list you can see what your chances of winning a prize is. Here they are:

Two clubs in two leagues—120 combinations; in three leagues—276; in four leagues—496; in five leagues—840; in six leagues—1,287. Four clubs in two leagues—1,820; three leagues—10,626; four leagues—35,960; five leagues—91,390; six leagues—194,580.

And so it goes—the pools run as many as six clubs in six leagues with as many as 12,271,512 combinations possible. This means, if you have one of the latter tickets, the odds are 12,271,512 to one that you don't have a winner.

Burnett Getting Real Fight For Job; INTRODUCING THE INDIANS Best Pinch Hitter In League In 1932

THE University of Florida was responsible for Johnny Burnett's prowess as an athlete. While a student there he excelled in nearly all sports, especially baseball.

He became an Indian immediately after his graduation. In 1928 was named to Terre Haute for more experience. While with that club Johnny played in 133 games and made 172 hits for an average of .326. Next year he was recalled to the Indians but could not beat Joe Sewell out of the short-stopping job. Was then sent to New Orleans on option. Again recalled in 1930 and he made up his mind to stay in the big leagues that trip. Had to stick as it was his last chance with the Indians. Has played every position in the infield except first base. Created an all-time record in the 18 inning game against the Athletics last season when he batted out nine hits in 11 times at bat. That record will probably never be broken.

Also has the distinction of being the first Indian to hit a home run in the stadium. Has developed into a dangerous batsman. Is one of the best Casino players on the club. Was a speed merchant when he joined the Indians, being a ten second man while in college. Has a winter residence in Bartow, Fla., where he raises a very good grade of Florida oranges. Hit the first home run inside the field at the stadium aside from hitting one into the stands.

Had the best year of his career last season and was one of the best shortstops in the league. Hopes to have a banner year this season. He will get plenty of competition from young Bill Knickerbocker. Johnny was laid up

Lincoln High Squad Ranked as Threat to Salem's Title Hopes

Entry List Jumps To 21 with Four Akron Schools Listed As Contestants; Waggle, of Leetonia, Looms As Leading High Hurdle Star

Battling to retain a championship title held for three consecutive seasons, Salem High athletes face the stiffest contest since the origination of the nocturnal classic in 1930 when they oppose a field of 350 thinclads from 20 invading schools in the fourth annual night track and field carnival at Reilly athletic stadium Saturday.

New records are expected in six events while the entire meet looms as one of the season's outstanding relay classics. Eighteen contests, including special relay races, will be unfolded before spectators with many of the state's outstanding schoolboy stars competing.

Lincoln High Looms Strong

Invading the Quaker grounds 23 strong, a powerful Lincoln High representation from Cleveland looms as one of the most serious obstacles in the path of the Salem titular campaign. The Lincoln distance running relay quartet, triumphant in races at Mansfield last week, is favored to annex the crown in mile and two-mile relays and will in all probability, if Saturday's races are duplicated, chase to the tape in new record time.

The Clevelanders are also given to score in several other events but in the relays have their best opportunities for first place laurels. Thrilling races should be provided, however, in these relays, for the Cuyahoga counties will be battling with rivals from their own neck of the woods, Cleveland Shaw having entered its crack racing foursome in both runs. Then, too, consideration must be given East Palestine, Salem, Steubenville, Alliance, Youngstown Rayen and other competing teams.

Salem Again Favored

As is customary in most track events involving Salem High, Coach Floyd Stone's Quaker performers will be favorites when the meet opens. The Stone team had little difficulty pulling through with the title in previous carnivals but the exodus, via graduation, of such brilliant athletes as Harold Horstman, Irwin and Ed Beck, William Miller, Edgar Wilms and others, will bother the squad greatly this year. Salem has several outstanding athletes, some of whom will probably win first places Saturday, but the school's weakness in many other events may prove fatal in more than one meet.

The entry list jumped to 21 today and now includes, together with Salem, Steubenville, East Palestine, Alliance, Youngstown Rayen, Canton, Cleveland Shaw, Cleveland Lincoln, athletes from four Akron schools, South, Buchtel, Garfield and North, Boardman, Columbians, Dayton, Pa., Leavittsburg, Leetonia, Poland, Sebring, Tallmadge and Warren. It looks like the best carnival in the four year history of the classic.

First In History

Salem High is believed to have been the first high school in the United States to have sponsored a night track and field meet. Under the supervision of Wilbur J. Springer the classic was started in 1930 and immediately attracted widespread interest. The curtailment of spring sporting activities in many schools this year has decreased the number of entries somewhat—24 competed last year but the fine array of talent which will participate more than makes up for the reduction in team entries.

Twelve new records were set up last year but less than half this number are expected to fall in this week's competition. William Pauline (Salem) is conceded a good chance to crash the broad jump mark of 20 ft. 9½ in. held by Donald Lease (Salem) while Wayne Russell (Salem) hopes to best the record of 46 ft. 5 in. held in the shot put by Conrad of Wooster.

Waggle May Set Record

A Leetonia lad, Waggle who also starred for the Blue and White in football, has raced over the 120-yd. high hurdles in 16 sec. and may set a new record in that event. The mark is now held by Maxwell of Cleveland Shaw who ran the hurdles, the mark of 26.7 now being held by Dave Appleby (Akron South).

Last year the Quakers scored 53 points to easily out-distance all rivals. Alliance High was second with 24 points tallied by other schools follow. Cleveland Shaw 23 1-2, Akron North 22, Massillon 16 1-4, Akron Garfield 16, Youngstown Rayen 12-12, Akron Central 12, Canton, Leetonia, Cleveland Parma and Warren each six; Akron South 5 1-2, Beaver Falls, Pa., 5, Sharon, Pa., 4 1-2, Wellsville 3 1-4, and Barberton and East Liverpool each 3.

Trophies to be awarded to individuals and teams at the meet are on display at the V. L. Batten & Company store, East State st.

AUBURN, Ind.—Inability to make a $10 payment on his automobile is believed to have prompted the suicide of William Church, 19.

Hildebrand Blanks Browns in One-Hit Clash; Chisox Lose

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Regardless of the quite logical explanation offered by Will Hildebrand, American league president that the weather is to blame for all this remarkable early-season pitching, the fact remains that the slug departments of the two major leagues are doing outstanding work against the chilled batters.

The latest additions to the list of April heroes are Leroy Parmelee, of the New York Giants, and Oral Hildebrand, of the Cleveland Indians. They hurled a pair of one-hit games yesterday, each barely missing the no-hit hall of fame.

Parmelee Trims Phillies

Parmelee, who spent most of the 1932 season with Columbus in the American Association, won his spurs in his first start of the campaign as he turned back the slugging Phillies, 3 to 1.

The only hit of Parmelee, was a smash by Mickey Finn in the third that went for a double when Johnny Vergez found it too hot to hold.

Hildebrand came just about as

THE MOST IMPORTANT QUESTION IN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

"IS THE MECHANISM Hermetically Sealed?"

Westinghouse is!

Before you select any refrigerator... look at the mechanism. Ask... "Is it Hermetically Sealed?"... Is it sealed and protected for lifetime performance?... Is it bathed in a permanent supply of oil?... Is it free of all exposed moving parts, stuffing boxes and belts? This is important. For these are the things that make the Westinghouse Hermetically-sealed mechanism your greatest guarantee of continued economy and dependability. See for yourself... now! Come today.

Agony For 20 Years PILES

Gone In 20 Days

This Pittsburgh man bought a bottle of Hem-Roid (tablets to swallow). He purchased it with the distinct understanding that if this one bottle did not prove to him that his piles would vanish he could have his money back.

You can get the same, fair and square guarantee from J. H. Lease Drug Co. or any live druggist—just read what this Pittsburgh man wrote: "After suffering 20 years—I took one bottle of Hem-Roid tablets and my pile trouble has entirely disappeared." (Name on request).

"Zoo in Budapest" Arrives; "Our Betters" Ends Today

A most unusual plot and setting furnish the strange background for "Zoo in Budapest" scheduled to play at the State theater Friday and Saturday.

Laurel, Hardy Comedy

An especially attractive addition to this bill will be the showing of a Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy comedy entitled "Twice Two" and needless to say all your troubles will vanish from your mind as you watch these two clowns of comedy.

Loretta Young and Gene Raymond are the stars of "Zoo in Budapest".

The story is built around the activities and happenings of a great zoological park. Primarily, it is a delightful romance between a boy who has been raised in a zoo, and an orphan girl who escapes from a reformatory-like asylum. However, it is the background of the many animals that gives this film its unusual interest.

Unusual Film, Simply Told

The main situation, that of the young lad who resents the ruthless slaughter of animals for their furs, is enacted before growling wolves, tigers and other beasts of the jungle—all ferocious and as anxious to jump at their protector's throat as that of any one else.

Simply told and ably directed this first of the Jesse L. Lasky's independent productions should prove to be a film a bit out of the ordinary run.

"OUR BETTERS", starring Constance Bennett, concludes its run this evening at the State.

Good Supporting Cast

Anita Louise, Gilbert Roland, Charles Starrett, Violet Kemble-Cooker and Phoebe Foster head the fine supporting cast.

Conce, always considered one of the best dressed women on the screen, has never before been more

Automatic Automobiles

Studebaker's contribution to 1933!

THEY'RE the world's first cars that all but drive themselves... these amazing new Automatic Studebakers. They're the pattern cars for all cars of the future with their 12 uncanny "mechanical brains" that not only act for you automatically but practically "think" for you, as well.

See how Power Brakes—greatest engineering achievement of the year—bring these Studebakers smoothly, surely, to a stop at your toe tip's touch. See how Studebaker's fully automatic control of choke, carburetor and spark operates without even a gesture of help from you. See how Studebaker starting is automatic not only when you're starting—but even should you stall!

Come in and drive an Automatic Studebaker, even if you're not ready to buy—no matter how new or old your present car may be. It will be the most fascinating motoring experience you've ever had.
